Project Idea

Collecting a small amount of money equivalent to fifty pounds each from each student at Pharos University for Financing and Assisting the community, in a creative way by establishing what is known as community development bank (virtual) .

The problem

There is a large number of needy people in the Alexandrian community, which requires us as a student community to contribute effectively.

A referendum is held to determine whether the applicant has agreed to contribute to this project, which will bring in revenues of approximately LE 700,000 .

Proposal to solve the problem

When students pay for tuition fees, the bank will ask the student if he wants to donate to the Community Development Bank account by paying fifty pounds, which is not comparable to our daily expenses

The other solution is to add fifty pounds to the tuition and transfer them to the account of the CDB .
