To achieve this aim, high school students attended the workshops that were held at Pharos University, depending on the students' academic interests and inclinations. The workshops were concerned with three major fields: engineering, medical and administrative. The students of all the participating schools were divided into groups according to the topic being chosen. Afterwards, each group started a tour between the faculties to attend several workshops on the chosen topic. At the end of every workshop, each group resolved a riddle, answered a quiz or solved a puzzle, etc.
